

Layer 2 – Data Link Layer

- Provides physical transmission of the data.
- Ensures that messages are delivered to the proper device on a LAN using hardware addresses.
 - MAC (Media Access Control) address
 - The basic fundamental addressing on network to be able to send traffic from one device to another.
- Translates messages from the Network layer into bits for the Physical layer.
- The “switching” layer

